

Chinese New Year tends to be a very manic time leading up to the celebrations and festivities which is why I have put together this comprehensive Chinese New Year Checklist for 2023, the year of the Yin Water Rabbit (Gui Mao) to hopefully make things a bit calmer in the run-up to Chinese New Year. Chinese New Year brings so many jobs and tasks that need doing around the home and office that need doing and every year I go through the home and office that I tend to forget things that need doing which is why I created a checklist to tick off as I go through all of the tedious tasks and I decided to share it on the website for others to add or change how they like, and the feedback has been amazing, and I am so thankful for all of your kind words.

The list below is the same list that I go through every year during Chinese New Year and this year, I have tailored the checklist to be relevant to the year of the Rabbit and have included where to place the 2023 Annual Cures and Enhancers and colour suggestions for each different compass sector of your home or office for the year which will hopefully make it a bit easier when going through everything before the start of the year of the Rabbit. This also makes a great reference sheet to keep handy during 2023 when introducing new furniture or decorations. Please feel free to share this list with your friends and family.

Chinese New Year 2023 (lunar) date for celebrating – 21st January 2023
Chinese New Year 2023 (Solar) date for placing Cures – February 4th 2023
2023 is the year of the Yin Water Rabbit (Gui Mao)

Fun facts and advice for Chinese New Year

- Ensure that house, flat, office or any other building is completely clean from top to bottom, to encourage good luck in the coming year.
- Open all the windows and doors in every single part of the home as this is said to bring in clean, new good luck for the year.
- Switch on all of the lights in the home inside and out as this is said to attract good luck from outside and if the windows and doors are wide open, it is easy for the luck to enter. The bright lights and open windows are also used to scare away evil spirits.
- Buy a new pair of slippers at New Year. It is said to stop people gossiping about you. In China, face and reputation are very important.
- Avoid arguments, using knives, driving too far, and they love to gamble on New Year's Day as they hope to create good luck and wealth. You can read more on this below.
- Do not punish or discipline the children. Otherwise, they will have more arguments in the New Year.
- Refrain from using a knife or scissors in the kitchen.
- You should not wash on this day which means do not take a bath, shower or wash your hair on Chinese New Year's Day as this will wash away all good luck for you.
- Refrain from wearing black or white colours when visiting friends on this day as these colours are associated with funerals and death.
- Visit recently deceased friends or family on New Year's Day
- When you wake somebody up on this morning, do not use their name as it is said that this person will be dependent on you all year long to motivate them.
- Do not wash any clothes on this day as Chinese New Year Day is the birthday of the god of Water.
- Do not cut your hair or nails on this day as it is believed that you will be bringing pain to your relations.
- Keep everything positive and do not talk about anything negative on this day as you will be setting an example for how the rest of your year is to be lived.
